

- There isn't enough stuff for the YL members to do in many areas, and throughout many times of the year. Granted it is hard to fully see that given the massive general election which we have just had, but things have almost ground to a stop. And that is something which I would like to avoid. Granted we can't have things going on 24/7 365, but there does seem to be a stagnation of events. Additionally, so many activities are on Saturday which isn't a day where everyone is available, yet all one day events are being stacked on that one day of a week. We need the events to allow us to work best and be the most inclusive while not being a drain on resources, which we must use as effectively as possible.
- I also would look at other price effective substitutes for things which failed during the conference. A key example was the lanyards which broke and were not effective.
- I am a very organised and involved person I would say, often trying to help out with administrative and organisational projects, and so I thought I would run to see whether I could help the Young Liberals. I have been part of a lot of organisational bodies. Most notably the head of Logistics in 3 different Model United Nations conferences, I was managing massive budgets as well as the travel and accommodation of hundreds of pupils on the largest. I did hundreds of documents worth of administration so as to keep things from suffering unnecessary hiccups which were within of my control, and working my hardest to accommodate and adjust for those which were, like when the lanyards arrived at 6pm instead of AM so me and the head of design stayed till 9PM at the centre to attach all of them.
- I have been part of other major organisational tasks such as my school's Studniówka, which I was incharge of and it was a massive success, and from this I know that the most important thing is initiative and forward planning, which is what I am great at. From my time as the chief editor of the English section of the Warsaw High School times, people can't make everything and I will ensure that a good system is always used to help people get the information which they may have missed for whatever reason, by technological problems or scheduling conflicts.
