Who am i? what have i done? what'll i do?

Hello Young Liberals!

Greetings everyone, my name is Harry C. Vilday, i am a Young(er) Liberal from the South East region (Specifically Kent) and I would love YOUR VOTE to be the chair of South East Young Liberals, why?

- I have lived my whole life in a town in the South East where the Liberal Democrat's haven't been popular since the days before the merger, and know what it feels like to need a lot of help to get things going, and what it feels like to not know where to get it
- I have a very strong passion for politics (one of the substitute teachers at school refer to me as "My Future Prime Minister") and have poured a lot of time and care into studying the subject, how to campaign, how to run parties and more, therefore I believe i am very well suited to be chair of the South East
- I want to assist local parties and the individual South East Young Liberal by making sure you know who to go to if you need help or assistance, or maybe just a familiar face to hand a pointer or two

That's who I am, but what is my pledge? _____

→ I want to use 2 words to simplify my campaign:

Visibility

A common complaint by Lib Dems is that we struggle to be seen by the Media and Public, and a common complaint from anyone to know me is that when I care about something, they end up knowing about it, while I'm not promising a weekly spot on BBC Question Time, you would know who your regional chair is, as I promise to attend all by-elections and events in Surrey, Kent and Sussex that i possibly can. (just imagine me on Question Time, jeez)

Transparency

As do most people in this country, I have an email address
(harryvildayburns@gmail.com)

Simply if you are a South East Young Liberal then email me here and i will answer your question or whatever you need (and if I'm taking particularly long you are welcome to shout at me in my twitter replies/DM's)

Thank you for reading, check my Twitter for campaign updates and whatnot and Vote Vilday!
